VIRGINIA CENSUS OFFICIALS NAMED

over the Seventh district appointment, for which Representative Hay advanced Arthur L. Warthen, of Front Royal.

Woodward a Lawyer.

William Wallace Woodward, Democratic First district supervisor, is a lawyer and leading resident of Hampton, Va., which has been his home ten years. Mr. Woodward is fifty-seven years of age, a native of Middlesex County, Va., which is the first supervisor's district, and he has resided within it all his life. He passed through the common school at Richmond College, and graduated in law from Cumberland University, Washington, D. C., in June, 1878, since which date he has practiced law continuously. At one time his father was county clerk of Middlesex County, and Mr. Woodward served as his deputy. He was highly recommended, and it is believed by the Census Director he is eminently qualified to perform his duty.

The district for which he has been appointed, in 1900 had a population of 212,304. It embraces the counties of Accomac, Caroline, Elizabeth City, Essex, Gloucester, King and Queen, Lancaster, Mathews, Middlesex, Northampton, Northumberland, Richmond, Spotsylvania, Warwick, Westmoreland, and York, and the cities of Fredericksburg and Newport News.

Bunting is Well Qualified.

Richard Paul Bunting, the Republican supervisor for the Second district, is a resident of Norfolk. He was born at Portsmouth and has lived years in the Second supervisor's district. He was educated in the public schools of his native town, and received an academic course at Norfolk. He was for ten years a justice of the peace, and also for a time sheriff of Norfolk County. He served as a United States gauger, and was a successful merchant. Mr. Bunting's familiarity with his district and his popularity among the people are well known to him pre-eminently for a position to which he has been appointed. The Second supervisor's district had a population in 1900 of 185,651, and embraces the counties of Isle of Wight, Nanamoud, Norfolk, Princess Anne, and Southampton, and the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth.

Carlton Ridgeway Moore, a Republican, the Third district supervisor, is an attorney at law, with an office at 201 Bank of Richmond Building, Richmond. He was born in Northampton County, Va., in February, 1879, and was educated in the county schools. He received the degree of L. L. from William and Mary College, and also went through the law courses at Richmond College and the University of Virginia. Before entering upon the practice of law in January, 1906, he was a farmer and railroad clerk. He has resided eight years in the Third supervisor's district. His training in statistical work as a railroad clerk, his accurate knowledge of the political divisions of his district, the people and their standing as a lawyer, were the considerations that influenced his selection.

His district in 1900 had a population of 185,702, and embraces the counties of Amelia, Brunswick, Charles City, Dinwiddie, Greensville, James City, Lunenburg, Mecklenburg, Nottoway, Powhatan, Prince Edward, Surry, and Sussex, and the cities of Petersburg and Williamsburg.

Landreth an Experienced Man.
Sidney Floyd Landreth, the Republican Fifth district supervisor, is a counselor at law and resident of Hillsville, Va. He was born in March, 1853, at Manarat, Carroll County, Va., which is in the Fifth supervisor's district and in which he has lived ever since. He graduated from the local high school, and spent three years teaching. Later he attended Washington and Lee University, completing the law course, and was also deputy clerk of the Circuit Court of Carroll County. He collected certain United States census data from that county in 1900, and this fact, supplemented by the unqualified indorsements and recommendations he received, led to his selection.

His district in 1900 had a population of 121,191, and embraces the counties of Carroll, Franklin, Grayson, Henry, Patrick, and Pittsylvania, and the city of Danville.

Burks a Lawyer.

Edward Calhoun Burks, the Democratic Sixth district supervisor, is an attorney at law, born thirty-one years ago at Liberty, now Bedford City, Va. He has a permanent place of residence since 1892. He received a common school education, he attended Randolph-Macon Academy, Bedford City, Va., and took the academic and law courses of the University of Virginia. Mr. Burks' legal experience has embraced appointments as court trustee, receiver, administrator, and his knowledge of the settlement of fiduciary accounts, requiring exceptional legal and business ability, and his high reputation in the community in which he resides, are said to have influenced his appointment.

His district in 1900 had a population of 126,558, and embraces the counties of Bedford, Buchanan, Dickenson, Floyd, Halifax, Montgomery, and Roanoke, and the cities of Lynchburg, Radford, and Roanoke.

Ott a Young Attorney.

Everett Dulaney Ott, the Republican Seventh district supervisor, is a practicing attorney and resident of Harrisonburg, Rockingham County, Va., where he was born in November, 1881. He is a graduate of the Harrisonburg High School, and also a B. A. and B. L. of Washington and Lee University. Before 1903 he served as a newspaper reporter and editor. His exceptional educational advantages, his business and professional experience, and his personal acquaintance throughout his district were weighty considerations with the Census Bureau.

His district in 1900 had a population of 228,088, and includes the counties of Albemarle, Clarke, Frederick, Greene, Madison, Page, Rappahannock, Rockingham, Shenandoah, and Warren, and the cities of Charlottesville and Winchester.

Smith a Lawyer.

John Cowan Smith, the Republican Ninth district supervisor, is a Clintonwood, Va., attorney-at-law, having lived at that place for the last seventeen years, and in his district his entire lifetime. He was born in November, 1870, in Dickinson County, and was educated in the common schools, followed by a course in law. His indorsements are said to have been of such a high character that the selection was made without hesitation.

His district in 1900 had a population of 228,088, and includes the counties of Bland, Buchanan, Dickenson, Giles, Lee, Pulaski, Russell, Scott, Smyth, Tazewell, Washington, Wise, and Wythe, and the city of Bristol.

Hyde a Banker and Lawyer.

Warren Lee Hyde, the Democratic Tenth district supervisor, is an attorney-at-law, living in Buchanan County, Va., where he was born fifty years ago, and which is included in his census district. His education comprised terms in the Buchanan high school, and the Botetourt County normal school; and he is a graduate of Washington and Lee University Law School. Afterward he became a railroad telegraph operator and ticket agent. His life work always has been along clerical lines. His legal practice is largely real estate and corporation work, and he is associated with the National Bank of his city. These qualifications, backed by the unqualified indorsement of the leading local citizens, are regarded by the Census Director as especially desirable in that district.

In 1900, the Tenth district had a population of 188,788, and includes the counties of Alleghany, Amherst, Appomattox, Augusta, Bath, Botetourt, Buckingham, Craig, Cumberland, Fluvanna, Highland, Nelson, and Rockbridge, and the cities of Buena Vista, Clifton Forge, and Staunton.

The Eighth district, for which the appointment of a Democratic supervisor remains to be announced, in 1900 had a population of 164,128, and embraces the counties of Alexandria, Culpeper, Fairfax, Fauquier, King George, Loudoun, Louisa, Orange, Prince William, and Stafford, and the city of Alexandria.

BYRD OUTLINES NEW LEGISLATION

Virginia Primaries Will Be Legalized, He Says.

STATE WILL PAY ALL BILLS

Speaker of House of Delegates Declares State Bank Examination Law, Equalization of Taxes Bill, Will Be Enacted, While Liquor Laws Will Be Slightly Amended.

Special to The Washington Herald.
Richmond, Va., Aug. 27.—Richard Evelyn Byrd, speaker of the house of delegates, to-day indicated what he believed would be the foremost matters to engage the attention of the lawmakers in January next.

He outlined the principal subjects to be considered by the legislature as follows:
A primary election law, whereby all parties—those which shall poll as many as 10,000 votes, say, at any general election—shall be given the opportunity to go to the polls and express at a primary their choice of a nominee for any office to be filled by the people of the State. The State is to pay all expenses of the election, the regular election officers are to serve, and the returns are to be made to officials for canvass.

Speaker Byrd believes that the question of examination of State banks will be taken up and some method regarding same adopted.

Equalization of Taxes.

The equalization of taxes is another subject that will be discussed. The speaker believes that a board of equalization will be established. He inclines to the belief that the State will receive many hundreds of thousands of dollars by this step, provided the law is carefully drawn and the proper men are named for the discharge of the important duties that will devolve upon the officers. Mr. Byrd is pretty well posted on the glaring inequalities that exist. The speaker thinks that the time has come for the introduction of a new, modern, and equitable system of handling the tax affairs. He has no fault to find with the present system, except that it is cumbersome.

No Change in Liquor Laws.

Mr. Byrd does not believe that there will be any material change in the existing liquor laws. There will be some amendments to the "near beer" and other "near" booze sections, but these will be for the purpose of making the laws plainer and more capable of construction, rather than with a view to making stronger restrictions in connection with the sale or handling of liquors.

The question of who will and who will not fill the positions in the house and senate this winter is coming to the front, with the announcement that Raleigh T. Green, of Culpeper, is making a vigorous fight to capture the clerkship of the house of delegates.

John T. Williams, of Giles, who had been clerk of the house for some years, is a candidate for re-election. George Lindsay, of Norfolk, for a long time clerk of the house of delegates, has determined not to ask for reappointment.

Capt. Frank B. Watkins, of Charlotte, for a long time sergeant-at-arms of the senate, will be a candidate for re-election to that position.

REYES' RESIGNATION RUMORED

Governor, Who Is Hiding in Mountains, May Visit Europe.

Mexico City, Aug. 27.—It is announced on semi-official authority that the resignation of Gen. Bernardo Reyes as governor of the State of Nuevo Leon, will be formally tendered to the legislature of that state at a special session, which will probably be held in the next week. It is understood Gen. Reyes contemplates an extended trip to Europe. He is said to be in the mountains in the vicinity of Galeana, but no direct word as to his whereabouts has been received here for several days.

GIRL PLEADS FOR YOUTH.

Victims of Suicide Compact in New York Will Probably Recover.

New York, Aug. 26.—"Mamma, mamma, where is Frank? Is he dead?" These were the first words of Florence Lillian Wood, of 667 Decatur street, Brooklyn, when she regained consciousness in Rushwick Hospital to-day. Florence was shot by Frank R. Williamson, her lover, who then shot himself.

"No, my dear, he isn't dead," the mother watching by her cot replied gently. "He's in the hospital, and he'll be all right. Perhaps he will get well as you will, and then everything will be all right."

The hospital surgeons say both will probably recover. Williamson, who is only nineteen, left his home at 315 Marion street, firmly determined to end his own life, either after the girl had killed herself or he had put an end to her life. The tragedy occurred on the roof of the girl's home while her parents were there.

BYERS NOT A SUICIDE.

Pittsburg Millionaire Expatriate Died Natural Death.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The rumor in certain quarters that Dallas C. Byers, of Pittsburg, Pa., who was said to have been a fugitive from justice, had committed suicide at Dinard, is without foundation. His death resulted from paralysis, with which he was stricken at the Villa Kerozar Malmaison, Dinard, where he had been staying since August 1. He underwent an operation for appendicitis in May. His brother-in-law took the body from Dinard to-day, and it will be sent to America on the first steamship for New York.

are not getting ready for an operation. Mr. Harriman is better. Then Mr. Gerry got into an automobile and started for Goshen. He was back on the crest of the hill inside of two hours with three men in the automobile with him.

The identity of the men could not be ascertained. The train which formed the third link in the chain of circumstantial evidence leading to the supposition of an operation went to Goshen. At Goshen it was said that the train had aboard a number of enthusiasts bound for the races. It returned early in the evening. It did not stop at Arden on either trip.

Dr. Crile's Visit.

Dr. George W. Crile, of Cleveland, a surgeon, was reported to be on his way from Bretton Woods, in the White Mountains, to Arden. He was expected by a special train, and unless he came over from Goshen in Mr. Gerry's automobile, he didn't arrive. No knowledge of his coming was admitted at Arden House.

Coming to-night there was no expectation here that Mr. Harriman is about to undergo an operation. The approaches to the house have shown no signs of dwellers in or out. The roads are untraveled, and no special trains from any direction have passed within access of the Harriman house.

Wall Street Guesses.

New York, Aug. 27.—Wall Street produced to-day more than the usual number of stories in regard to Mr. Harriman's condition. They ranged all the way from having the railroad man walking in his garden to depicting him on the operating table. At Mr. Harriman's offices, Charles C. Tegethoff, his private secretary, said:

"Mr. Harriman is feeling better. He is up and dressed and walking about the house. There is an improvement."

A Wall Street news agency gave out an "authoritative statement" of Mr. Harriman's condition. It said:

"Mr. Harriman is not suffering from any organic disease, and the many assertions that have been made since his return that he was afflicted with a malignant growth or other incurable malady are entirely without foundation in truth. The denials that such a condition existed, already given out by Prof. Steumpfel, of Vienna, the specialist by whom Mr. Harriman was treated while abroad, and by Dr. W. C. Lyle, Mr. Harriman's physician, may be accepted with confidence, and as in no way containing mental or professional reservation. As has been stated by his physician, Mr. Harriman's trouble arises from a complete nervous breakdown, from which recovery may be obtained by a course of complete rest from business cares and worries of all kinds."

An unusually large crop of conspiracy stories also were artfully disseminated to-day.

WITELAW REID SEES TAFT

Ambassador Understood to Have Discussed Reappointment.

Senator Newlands Also a Caller.

With His Son, the President Plays Game of Golf.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 27.—Whitelaw Reid, American Ambassador to Great Britain, to-day motored down from the Boardman's at Manchester and saw Mr. Taft for the first time since his return. On account of the reports that Mr. Reid isn't expected to succeed himself as Ambassador, his call was a little more than one purely of courtesy.

At the same time Mr. Taft has expressed his willingness to make important appointments during a recess of Congress. In the specific case of the Court of St. James he has been positive in his reiteration that he has been unable to put his finger on the man he wanted for the post.

Whatever phase of the problem they were discussing to-day, the President and Mr. Reid were together for more than an hour. Neither of them cared to talk about the interview afterward.

Senator Francis F. Newlands, of Nevada, was another caller at the Taft cottage this afternoon. It is understood he came to refresh Mr. Taft's memory on the subject of reclamation of the arid lands in the West. The President is expected to touch upon this subject to some extent during his trip.

This morning the President and his son Robert were out to the Myopia golf course, with a clear sky overhead and a whistling wind sweeping across the course. Mr. Taft is getting both boys started at the game in earnest. Charlie has developed a swing like a professional.

The result of to-day's match was kept in the family.

MUNICIPAL MEET CLOSES.

David Heinemann, of Detroit, Is Elected President of League.

Montreal, Aug. 27.—The League of American Municipalities closed its annual convention here this afternoon by the election of officers. The chief interest centered in the election of president.

Two names were submitted, those of David Heinemann, of Detroit, and Robert Maddox, mayor of Atlanta, but the latter withdrew his name on the motion of Frank E. Doremus, of Detroit. Mr. Heinemann was unanimously elected.

These officials were also elected: Hon. J. R. Cronin, of Illinois, first vice president; Alderman Lapointe, of Montreal, second vice president; F. N. Nunkhouser, third vice president; Mayor O'Brien, of Jonesburg, Ky., fourth vice president.

The Hon. J. McVior, of Des Moines, was re-elected secretary, while the trustees appointed were Alderman J. L. Conington, of Newark, N. J.; William J. Edgar, of Philadelphia, Pa.; I. L. Cooper, of Baltimore; T. E. Knox, Derry, Ind., and Mayor Grant, of San Diego.

On the second ballot, St. Paul, Minn., was chosen as the meeting place next year.

NEWS OF ALEXANDRIA

Tucker Faction Snubbed in Political Meeting.

REPUBLICANS ARE JUBILANT

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.
King street.

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 27.—"What is going to be the result of the meeting of the political leaders just held in Richmond to discuss the coming election?"

This question is just now a paramount one with the leaders of the Democratic party, and especially so with those allied to what is known as the State machine. The supporters of Harry St. George Tucker, who went down in defeat in the recent primary, failed to receive an invitation to take part.

It is stated this alleged snub they received at the hands of the State machine had caused a wide breach, which will require a long time before it is thoroughly healed. The general dissatisfaction sold to exist in the rank and file of the Democratic party at this time will not do Judge William Hodges Mann's candidacy any good, it is believed here.

The Washington harbor police boat this afternoon recovered the body of Melissa Piper, a negro, who was drowned in the Potomac off Smoot's wharf at 5:30 o'clock this morning. The body was taken to a undertaking establishment at 1414 N. Washington street, where an inquest will be held at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning by Coroner S. C. Moore.

Edward Groomes appeared at police headquarters and related the story of the drowning. He stated that he was in the Potomac when he saw the body of the negro woman. He was in the boat when he saw the body, and he was in the boat when he saw the body.

The plans of five competing architects for the new home to be erected by Alexandria Lodge, No. 758, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, will be opened at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon next at the Elks' Hall, Prince and Royal streets.

The new home will be erected on a lot adjoining the present home on the south side of Prince street, between Royal and Fairfax streets. It will cost $25,000, and will be built of brick, three stories high.

The plans of the new home will be opened at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon next at the Elks' Hall, Prince and Royal streets. The new home will be erected on a lot adjoining the present home on the south side of Prince street, between Royal and Fairfax streets.

The committee in charge is composed of the following: R. S. Barrett, chairman; H. W. Smith, secretary; T. W. Robinson, treasurer; J. W. Bales, chairman of the construction committee; Zora Hill, chairman of the finance committee; Dr. W. M. Smith, August Oehlert, Frank M. Hill, August Pohl, C. C. Carlin, Thomas A. Fisher, and Jacob Brill, the last-named three being honorary members.

News was received in this city to-night announcing the death of John G. Wiley, about fifty-five years old, at Landover, N. J., where he was employed as a bridge carpenter. It is supposed he fell from a bridge on which he was working. The body will be brought here to-morrow morning and taken to his home, 117 Prince street, and prepared for burial. Mr. Wiley is survived by several children. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

The George Washington Rifles, the newly organized military company, contemplate erecting an armory. The plan proposed is to charge the members $12 per year as dues for a period of three years. The membership of the company is now about 100, and this would mean $3,600 at the expiration of that time, which would form the nucleus for the armory. Another plan, which will be adopted at once, is to procure a piece of ground to be used as an athletic park. Revenue derived from the park would also add to the funds for the enterprise.

In the police court to-day John Trumbull was acquitted on a charge of non-support. The court, in summing up the case, said it was the duty of the couple to support each other, and accordingly acquitted Trumbull.

It is said that residents on Prince street, between Royal and St. Asaph streets, a distance of two squares, will shortly petition the city council to pave that thoroughfare with vitrified brick.

NEW OUTBREAK OF PELLAGRA.

Alabama Bacteriologist Is Besieged with Demands for Attention.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 27.—With a hundred cases of the new leprosy disease, pellagra, on his hands, in Clarke County, on the Gulf coast and half a dozen in Butler County, with scattered cases in nearly every county, Dr. E. M. Mason, State bacteriologist, is besieged with demands for attention to hookworm outbreaks.

More than 200 specimens from the hookworm malady are in his office and a new outbreak is reported in Madison County in the northern part of the State, where it had not been heard of before.

Dr. Mason says pellagra cases are not increasing, and the county doctors are finding no trouble to do all their work. He is bringing a patient to Montgomery for observation, so that he can watch the progress of it, believing that as the trouble grows out of an animal parasite there is some antitoxin that will reach it.
